Suburban music teachers group plans tea in Arlington Heights

The Northwest Suburban Music Teachers Association will host a membership tea at the Arlington Heights Memorial Library, 500 W. Dunton Ave., Monday, August 27 at 1 p.m. New members of the N.S.M.T.A. who joined the group during the 1978-1979 season, as well as other area non-member music teachers who are interested in furthering their professional affiliations are invited to attend.

The tea is being given for the purpose of acquainting recent and prospective members with the many programs, activities and projects of the N.S.M.T.A. and the Illinois State Music Teachers Association. Membership chairman Verna Dean Roberts will explain various aspects of the organization and other board members and committee chairmen will answer questions concerning their particular areas of responsibility.

The objectives of the Northwest Suburban Music Teachers Association are to elevate the standards of music teaching in the area, and to encourage and promote the cause of good music. Teachers who are actively engaged in professional music teaching are eligible for active membership. All persons not professionally engaged in music teaching, but who wish to support the program of the association, are eligible for associate membership.

Meetings are held the third Monday morning of each month, September through November, and January through May, at the Arlington Heights Library. Programs for the coming season will feature such subjects as sight reading materials for the intermediate student, teaching jazz-pop styles, improvisation, contest possibilities in the Chicago area and the history of the piano.

In addition, the group will sponsor its annual sonata-sonatina contest in November and awards competition in May. Other on-going projects of the N.S.M.T.A. include workshops for teachers, student recitals held at Harper College and sponsorship of the Illinois State Music Teachers Association annual syllabus exams in theory and performance.

Persons interested in acquiring more information on the membership tea and the N.S.M.T.A. may call Roberts at 437-2067 or president Beverly Peterson at 894-3434.

Nuns craft harpsichord from kit

By Kay Rutherford

For more than four years the halls of Mundelein College's music department have rung with the sounds of hammer, drill and saw, as well as the strains of Bach, as two nuns handcrafted a five-octave Flemish concert harpsichord.

"It was just a bundle of sticks when it arrived," said Sister Frances Dolan of the kit that the two bought from a Connecticut dealer.

Actually, when it arrived, the kit was in more order than when the two nuns began construction, said Sister Eliza Kenney, chairperson of the music department.

"One of the students' boy friends offered to unpack it," she said. But, sad to say, his enthusiasm for the job led him to untie all the neatly marked bundles and dispense with the labels.

ALONE, THE TWO would-be builders faced a sea of sticks, and the sight was so unnerving that they postponed construction for a year. "We didn't know what was what," said Sister Kenney, a piano instructor. "We were too scared to even start."

As it turned out, when the blueprints called for a three-eighths-of-an-inch-thick strip, the sisters had to measure every piece of wood to find the proper one, they said. "It was just raw wood," one said, and had to be sawed, sanded and trimmed to fit.

But the most tedious job was adjusting—by shaving with a razor—the 180 plastic jacks that pluck the strings of the instrument, which is the Renaissance precursor of the piano. (Piano strings are struck by little hammers, but harpsichord strings are plucked by hooks of different sizes, called jacks.)

The instrument has 180 strings, one sister said. And four holes had to be drilled to hold the pegs for each string—for a total of 720 holes. So far so good, said the sisters, but nowhere in Chicago hardware stores could they find a drill bit small enough for the pegs. The problem was solved by Sister Dolan's brother, a tool-and-die maker, who found one.

SISTER KENNEY'S father, a woodworker, told the two that the color they had painted the case was "repulsive" and advised them how to finish it so it had a more natural wood-grain look.

Stretching the strings (taut wires) brought a run on band-aids for their cut fingers, they said. "We have our blood in it," said Sister Nolan.

But now the two are close to completing the instrument after years of having to listen to people ask, "Isn't it done yet?" The original kit was bought with money raised through bake sales and donations, but the finished instrument is worth $5,000 or $6,000.

Alexander Leffek has housed the Berwyn Conservatory of Music for 33 years. He practices piano daily, along side a bust of a well-known fellow musician.

Harmony at home

He makes music a household word

By Edie Turovitz

MANY PEOPLE like to have music in their homes. Alexander Leffek went a bit further than most.

Rather than bringing in an album or a piano, Leffek brought the Berwyn Conservatory of Music into his home.

In 1946 the Berwyn music teacher bought the school from its founder, and with Italian violinist Pellegrino Pacini transformed the conservatory in terms of location, students, and instruction.

"WHEN THE conservatory first started, there was piano, voice, violin, and dramatic arts instruction, but we added all the band and orchestra lessons," Leffek said, beaming with pride. "The school has really grown."

WHEN LEFFEK moved from Chicago to Berwyn 33 years ago, he moved his new conservatory with him. "I wanted to put the school in my home," he said. "It's an atmosphere that's pleasant. A home is conducive to music. It isn't commercial. People can even watch TV while waiting for their lessons."

Leffek has seen a lot of changes in those 33 years. Not all have been welcome. The fate of music education hasn't looked good lately, and it's a trend that worries Leffek.

"WITH THE GENERAL decrease in school enrollment, many districts have to cut their funds for music. When this happens, kids lose interest in musical instruments because they have no band or orchestra to play with," he said.

When Leffek began in 1946, he had "35 students." Now he has about 125 students. "That's just an approximate figure," he cautioned. "There are times when we've had more and less. After 9 years we reached a peak of 357."

Of the students he has had, Leffek estimates he has helped 40 move beyond the practice-for-fun stage and into the professional realm.

"MANY HAVE come to me as piano majors," he said. "I've trained them in piano and theory to pass the entrance exams of the school of their choice. I've helped them know their instrument, relate it to other instruments, and give them musical background."

LEFFEK IS proud of his school. He loves to boast that many of his teachers have "concertized around the world," and that he teaches students ages 6 to 75.

"Age doesn't have much bearing on the ability to learn music," he said. "Younger people may be more flexible because they haven't developed all muscles yet, but anyone can take part."

Leffek said that it's more acceptable today for people to start learning music during adulthood. "I even know of one tuba player who started from scratch during middle age," he said. "Today freedom of expression is just easier to come by."

Composition: two contrasting movements of a sonatina (Exception: complete 2 movement sonatinas without contrast may be entered) chosen from the classical through modern period. Exclude D. Scarlatti one movement (first or third) of a sonata chosen from the classical through modern period. Exclude D. Scarlatti. (Beethoven Sonatas Op. 49, No. 1 and No. 2 must be entered as sonatinas.)

OR

Requirements: All compositions must be performed from memory without repeats. A copy of the same edition the student uses must be provided to the judges with measures numbered. No Xerox copies permitted. Judges will have authority to stop an entrant before the end of a composition.

Judging: Two qualified judges per audition room will be selected by the Awards Committee. They will rate aspects of the entrant's performance on a scale of 1 to 10; the average of these ratings will be the student's total. All judges' decisions will be final. Written comments will also be included.

Prizes: All entrants will receive award ribbons for participating. Those achieving an A-rating (90 or above) will receive an award pin. Highest scorers in each age group will receive medals at the discretion of the judges.

Fees: A non-refundable $5 fee will be charged for each student of an NSMTA member, who may enter no more than 5 students. A non-refundable $7 fee will be charged for each student of a non-NSMTA member, who may enter no more than 3 students. All teachers entering students must be members of NSMTA. Make checks payable to the Student Foundation of Northwest Suburban Music Teachers Association.

Applications: Complete entrance application and include fee payment. Forms and fees must be received by October 10, 1979.

99 students, age eight to 18, representing 36 area teachers, participated in the recent third annual Pinao Sonata-Sonatina competition sponsored by the Student Foundation of the Northwest Suburban Music Teachers' Association at Harper College.

39 students were awarded honor-keys for receiving A-scores of 90 points, or higher. Of these, the following eight students were awarded medals in recognition of their scores of 95 or higher and, in the judges' opinions, their outstanding performances within their respective age divisions:

Nicole Laurin 9, of Lake Zurich, student of Judith Peterson in Kildeer; Johanna Lee, 9, of Hoffman Estates, student of Constance Itter, Schaumburg; Kathy Peterson, 9, of Mt. Prospect, student of Linda Heuer, Hoffman Estates; Amy Tollefson, 10, and Larry Robbins, 10, both of Arlington Heights, students of Marilyn Crosland, Buffalo Grove; Jonathan Hess, 14, of Glencoe, student of Elaine Shelton, Glencoe; Peggy Burr, 15, of St. Charles, student of Lorelei Warfel, Aurora; and Yvonne Toll, 17, of Mt. Prospect, student of Maria Hoar, Arlington Heights.

Judges for the competition were Dr. Kenneth Mays and John Zimmerman of the piano faculty of Wheaton College; Marion Schap, part time teacher at Elmhurst College, and visiting lecturer at North Central College; George Ryder of Bob Jones University; Elizabeth May of North Central College; and Carol Williams, private teacher of Aurora.

The eight medalists were presented in guest performances of their winning solos at the regular fall recital series of the NWSMTA Sunday, Nov. 18. At this time they were presented their medals.

NSMTA teachers whose students performed at the recitals included Jeanne Banta, Rita Choice, Joan Drolet, Maria Hoar, Ruth Petersen, Ilse Schmidt, and Lila Malecki of Arlington Heights; Mary Etian, Barrington; Alex Leffek, Berwyn; Helen Simpkins, Grayslake; Marilyn Crosland, Buffalo Grove; Rosa Ding, Hoffman Estates; Judith Peterson, Kildeer; Marjorie Lantz, Mt. Prospect; Delores Jolie, Ontarioville; Delia Krueger, Lyda Samuels, Inga Seday, Delores Stewart and Jim Noland of Palatine; Lois Zelk, Rolling Meadows; Constance Itter, Beverly Peterson and Patricia Schneider of Schaumburg; and Suzanne Hyneck and Vivian Pintacura, Wheeling.

The Northwest Suburban Music Teachers Association is an organization of professional music teachers whose goal is the advancement of the highest standards of music education. An affiliate of the Illinois State Music Teachers Association, the NSMTA meets the third Monday of the month in the Arlington Heights Memorial Library, 500 N. Dunton, at 9:15 a.m. For further information on the programs of the NSMTA, call membership chairman Verna Dean Roberts, 437-2067, or Beverly Peterson, 894-3434, president.

UNABLE TO find materials to help teach music to preschool children, Kathy Lecinski wrote her own. Entitled "Look at Me," the activity book and record album recorded by the Buffalo Grove woman have been published by the Good Apple educational publishing house.

Songwriter's effort fills void in children's music materials

by Mary Poker

Herald staff writer

When she started teaching music to preschoolers four years ago, Kathy Lecinski was amazed by the lack of books and materials available for young children.

"I couldn't find any materials that were musically sound," Mrs. Lecinski explained. "A great deal of what was available insulted a child's intelligence."

Encouraged by her fellow teachers in the Buffalo Grove Park Dist. Preschool, Mrs. Lecinski decided to compose her own songs and write an activity book.

Almost two years in the making, the book and music album, entitled "Look At Me," recently were published by the Good Apple educational publishing house.

"IT HAS probably been the nicest musical thing I've done," Mrs. Lecinski said of the book and album. And her musical involvement is extensive.

A wife and the mother of three young boys, Mrs. Lecinski sings and directs two choirs for St. Mary's Parish, teaches music at St. Mary's school and the Buffalo Grove preschool and performs at weddings and funerals.

She is a graduate of Northwestern University's school of music.

The fondness she and her family have for music can be found in the living room of their Knollwood Drive home in Buffalo Grove. A harp stands before the window and a grand piano is in another corner, sharing it with a violin.

The older Lecinski boys, ages eight and seven, take Suzuki violin and piano lessons. The youngest, age 4, will start learning the renowned Japanese music method next year.

WHEN HER children were little, Mrs. Lecinski recalls she and her husband often argued over whether the boys should play baseball or play a musical instrument.

"I thought they should do both and they do. They're both very musical children. And baseball and music haven't interfered with each other."

Before her marriage, Mrs. Lecinski performed as Kathy Ann on the Chicago area supper club circuit, including the famous Saber Room. Although she relishes those days, Mrs. Lecinski said she has no ambitions to return to the glow of stagelights.

"I saw my former agent a while ago," she said. "He offered me a professional job on the spot. I turned him down.

"I have reached a different plateau," she explains. The satisfaction once derived from the stage now comes from her local music activities and especially from the book and record album.

"PARENT RESPONSE and teacher response has been overwhelming," she said. St. Mary's bought books for use in its music program and a children's education center in Buffalo Grove reports brisk sales on both book and album, Mrs. Lecinski said.

Despite hearing their mother sing and play the tunes day after day for almost two years, her three boys still enjoy listening to the finished product.

"They listen to it a lot. They get a real kick out of it because St. Mary's purchased a lot. I look at it (as) a gift that I've been able to do the first book," she said.

So much time and effort went into the project that when the publisher called to say it had been accepted, Mrs. Lecinski said she cried.

Mrs. Lecinski is working on a second book and album. She said she may develop a series of musical activity books and albums for children.

"I will continue doing this as long as the quality is there," she adds.

When the children were younger, Mrs. Lecinski recalls she and her husband often argued whether the boys should play baseball or play a musical instrument.

"I thought they should do both, and they do. They're both very musical children. And baseball and music haven't interfered with each other," she said.

BEFORE HER marriage, Mrs. Lecinski performed as Kathy Ann on the Chicago area supper club circuit, including the famous Saber Room. Although she relishes those days, Mrs. Lecinski says she has no ambitions to return to the glow of stagelights.

"I saw my former agent a while ago," she says slowly. "He offered me a professional job on the spot. I turned him down.

"I have reached a different plateau," she said. The satisfaction once derived from the glamour of the stage now comes from her local music activities and especially from the book and record album.

Improvisation program

Stanley Monokoski, music coordinator at Waubensee Community College in Sugar Grove, will speak at today's meeting of Northwest Suburban Music Teachers Assn. His topic will be "Improvisation" and he will speak at 9:15 a.m. in the Dunton Room of Arlington Heights Memorial Library, 500 N. Dunton. A composer, arranger and piano stylist, Monokoski is pursuing doctoral studies at Northwestern University.

Northwest Suburban Music Teachers Assn. is an organization of professional music teachers. Those interested in further information on the programs and projects of the group may call Verna Dean Roberts, 437-2067.

DR. NELITA TRUE

Conducting the Twelfth Annual Three Day Piano Teachers Workshop

April 21, 22 and 23, 1980
at Town Hall, Randhurst
Route 83 and Rand Road, Mt. Prospect, Illinois

A native of Montana, Nelita True has concertized throughout the United States and in Europe. She has appeared as soloist with the Chicago Symphony, National Symphony, and the Baltimore Symphony. After her orchestral debut in Portugal, she was described as "a true pianist of the best tradition." The New York Herald Tribune Winner of the prestigious Juilliard Competition, she appeared as soloist with the Juilliard Orchestra in Philharmonic Hall, Lincoln Center.

Miss True was the recipient of a Fulbright grant for study in Paris. At the University of Michigan, she was awarded the coveted Stanley Medal as the most distinguished graduate in music, was named the outstanding member of Mu Phi Epsilon in the nation, and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. Her principal teachers were Helen Titus, Sascha Gorodnitzki and Leon Fleisher. She earned a doctorate in performance at the Peabody Conservatory in Baltimore.

As part of the Bicentennial Parade of Music, Miss True appeared as soloist at the Kennedy Center. Her recent recital at the National Gallery of Art was declared "an artistic and popular triumph" by the Washington Post.

In 1977, Miss True and her husband, Fernando Laires, gave the world premiere of Concerto for Two Pianos by the Pulitzer Prize-winning composer, Leslie Bassett. The concerto was commissioned especially for the two pianists by the Midland (Mich.) Center for the Arts.

PIANO WORKSHOP CONDUCTED BY DR. NELITA TRUE

The workshop will be held April 21, 22 and 23 at Town Hall located in the lower level of the Randhurst Shopping Center at Route 83 and Rand Road in Mt. Prospect, Illinois. Sessions each day will be from 8:15 a.m. to 11:30 and from 1:00 p.m. to 3:00. Registration will be from 8:15 a.m. to 8:45. Plan to arrive during the early part of registration so you might enjoy a roll and cup of coffee with us. Sessions begin promptly. Order early on any music you may wish to purchase.

Registration fee for teachers is $30.00 for 3 days. If you are able to attend for only one or two days, the fee is $12.00 per day. There is a special rate for students under 21 of $6.00 per day, or $15.00 for 3 days. Students are to send an affidavit signed by their teacher with registration. The workshop fee will be refunded, if requested before April 13, 1980. All are urged to pre-register by mail prior to April 13th, as registration will be limited. If April 13th has passed and you wish to attend the workshop, please call the person listed below.

A cafeteria type restaurant, Tartan Tray, is next to Town Hall, and other restaurants are located in the shopping mall if you desire something other than the Tartan Tray menu. You will note we are adjourning for luncheon at 11:30 a.m. to avoid the heavier traffic load at Noon.

Teachers are to make their own motel accommodations, if necessary. Holiday Inn at Route 83 and Rand Road in Mt. Prospect is the closest. There are others in the vicinity.

No recording, reproduction by any means or device shall be permitted.

This workshop is recognized as applying towards certification renewal for ISMTA members. Check below, if you wish affidavit of attendance.

A reminder that all fees and expenses are tax deductible, so save your receipts.
